

UNIVERSITY OF SARAJEVO – FACULTY OF LAW CORDIALLY INVITES YOU TO ATTEND LECTURE

NATURE AS THE SUBJECT OF LAW. PROLIFERATION OF SUBJECTIVITIES AND LEGAL CONCEPTS IN DEVELOPMENT

BY PROFESSOR JESSICA MAZZUCA, PH.D.
MAGNA GRÆCIA UNIVERSITY OF CATANAZARO

ON APRIL 9TH, 2024
10:00 AM
UNIVERSITY OF SARAJEVO
FACULTY OF LAW
LECTURE ROOM 141

Abstract: The work starts with a question: Is it possible to recognize Nature as a legal person? Although this topic has recently been studied, it has its roots in ancient natural philosophy. This work involves various fields: philosophy, law, sociology, and even health studies. Through this lesson, I would like to reflect on the possible ways out of the constraints of anthropocentric law, starting from the analysis of some overseas legal cases, also reflecting on the forms and practices of sustainable sovereignty carried out by indigenous people in the urgency of imagine alternative paradigms to those that are the origin of the current interpretative paradigm. Then, the work will focus on theoretical and practical observations that bring together different expressions of the interdependence between human and non-human nature to address the challenges of our time, including the aspiration for On Health.

Keywords: Right of Nature, Anthropocentrism, One Health

ON THE LECTURER

- Research fellow in Philosophy of Law and General Sociology
- Professor in Theory and Technique of Standardization and Legal Interpretation at the Magna Graecia University of Catanzaro
- Professor of Theory of Interpretation and Legal Methodology at the Specialization School of Legal Professions SSPL Magna Graecia University of Catanzaro (post-graduate)
- Lawyer
- Member of the editorial secretariat (editor assistant) of the scientific journal "Ordines" – “For interdisciplinary knowledge on European institutions.”
- Reviewer (referee) for the magazine Teoria e Critica Del regolazione Sociale, Mimesis Editore

Jessica Mazzucca obtained a law degree and subsequently attended a specialized school for legal professions, where she received the title. She also obtained a Ph.D. in "Theory of law and European legal order," curriculum Theory and history of law, IUS-20 sector. She spent periods teaching abroad, having won several Erasmus Mobility teaching tenders at the University of Jaén and Carlos III University of Madrid. She has been a speaker at several national and international conferences.

She is the author of a monograph, The Deceptive Certainties. The Role of the Interpreter (2021), and another on the subject of legal argumentation soon to be published, as well as numerous essays, including The Artificial Intelligence of Law. Lights and shadows of algorithmic reasoning (Practical Reason, 2024); Nature as a subject of law. Proliferation of subjectivities and legal concepts in transformation (Federalismi.it, 2023); For an interpretation of law in harmony with the changing needs of the times. The intuition of Francesco Carnelutti (L'Ircocervo, 2023); The path of punishment. From the penalty of death to the perpetual cadena. El caso italiano de cadena perpetua "no revisable" (Derechos y Libertades, 2023); An eloquent silence. Women and advocacy from the rhetoric of exclusion to the dialectic of recognition (Politics of law, 2022); The experience of pain and the reasons for hope. Reflections on the recent evolution of the jurisprudential debate on the subject of human dignity and the end of life (State, Churches and Confessional Pluralism, 2020)